Blowing the Whistle on CIA Torture

John Kiriakou is a former high-ranking CIA counter-terrorism officer and the first U.S. official to confirm that the CIA was torturing its detainees. As a whistleblower, Mr. Kiriakou served nearly two years in a Federal correctional facility.

In April 2015, Mr. Kiriakou exposed the controversy within the CIA over the U.S.' secret detention and rendition to torture in Syria of Canadian citizen Maher Arar. In September, it was announced that Canadian authorities have brought criminal charges against a Syrian official for Mr. Arar's torture.

Later this fall, Mr. Kiriakou will receive the prestigious First Amendment Award from PEN Center USA, the writers' organization.
